NOW OPEN: The Historic Core Visitors Center has opened at 209 West 5th Street as the HCBID's new offices and the first visitors center for Downtown Los Angeles. The grand opening celebration included food from BierBeisl Imbiss, beverages from Redline DTLA and Smoke & Honey, and a ribbon cutting with Assemblymember Miguel Santiago and Councilmember Jose Huizar who remarked on the Visitors Center's importance for Downtown Los Angeles. The reception was attended by community partners such as DLANC, LAPD, local business owners and residents, and photographed by Gary Leonard.

Cento Pasta Bar serves gourmet pastas at bargain prices inside Mignon, Tuesday – Friday, 11am – 3pm.

// 128 E 6th St

The Visitors Center features an information desk and printed materials including neighborhood walking guides, shopping guides, and Downtown arts and culture maps. An original light fixture by Dave Lovejoy of the Spring Arts Collective hangs in the conference room. The Visitors Center will also function as a rotating gallery with work by Bill Sherwood via the GDCA Gallery currently on display for sale. Tourists, locals, and future residents and business owners have been dropping in to chat, check out the neon sign, and learn about the neighborhood. Stop by Monday – Friday, 9am–5pm, just next to The Last Bookstore.

THANK YOU to our 65,000+ new friends who explored, photographed, and danced your way through the Historic Core this weekend for Councilmember Jose Huizar's Night on Broadway street festival. Crowds thronged through Broadway from 3rd to Olympic for live music, interactive art, family activities, and diverse performances in 7 of our historic theaters. After the event officially closed, thousands took the party to our local bars and restaurants closing down businesses as they sold out of virtually everything in stock. We're excited to see more and more Angelenos celebrating their history, rediscovering the heart of LA, and taking ownership over Downtown's future. Photo by Michael Frey.
